

Intergenerational Programming

ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY

American Library Association, Office for Literacy and Outreach Services. Library outreach to underserved populations: Services to the elderly, list of one-time intergenerational programs. Available through <http://www.ala.org/olos/services/one-time.htm>. Accessed 7 April 03.

Lists eight "one-time" intergenerational programs.

American Library Association, Office for Literacy and Outreach Services. Library outreach to underserved populations: Services to the elderly, list of ongoing intergenerational programs. Available through http://www.ala.org/Content/NavigationMenu/Our_Association/Offices/ Accessed 7 April 03.

Lists 10 "ongoing" intergenerational programs.

Bullock, Janis R. and Sandra S. Osborne. 1999. Seniors', volunteers', and families' perspectives on an intergenerational program in a rural community. Educational Gerontology 25(3) (April/May); 237-252. Available Through EBSCOhost <http://search.epnet.com/direct.asp?an=1926628&db=aph>. Accessed 7 April 03.

Discusses the origins and benefits of intergenerational programs, and the Community Senior Center intergenerational "Befrienders" program.

Flickinger, Theodore B. and Ann M. Londrigan. 1994. A look at IAPD's 1994 senior services survey. Illinois Park District senior services: Meeting the challenge. Available through <http://www.lib.niu.edu/ip941125.html>. Accessed 3 February 03.

Discusses the "intergenerational wave" at Illinois park system, describing four programs: pen pal, "grandma day at day camp," choir and "adopt a tot."

Green, Marilyn V. Intergenerational programming in libraries. Available through <http://agexted.cas.psu.edu/docs/21600301.html>. Accessed 3 February 03.

Discusses the South Bay Cooperative Library System, San Jose, CA intergenerational reading program, its setting, suggest skills and credentials, suggested resources/professionals, collaborative organizations, material and costs. It also includes an program evaluation, to determine if it is successful.

Risacher, Joellen. 1995. The age of confidence: An intergenerational program helps children and teens develop the skills they need to grow. School Library Journal 41(4) (April). Available through EBSCOhost. http://liberbu.library.unt.edu:2237/citation.asp?tb=1&_ug=db+0%2C13+ln+en%2... Accessed 7April 03.

Discusses the Clermont County (Ohio) Public Library intergenerational program "Side kicks: Kids and Senior Together" begun in 1992, which purports to have helped teens with academic and extracurricular problems build a stronger sense of self-worth as well as served seniors in the community.

Rubery, Nancy M. 1990. A grand idea. School Library Journal 36(1) (January); 42. Available through EBSCOhost <http://search.epnet.com/direct/asp?an=9002120366&db=aph>. Accessed 7 April 03.

Discusses the "Grandreading" intergenerational program of the Ontario Cooperative Library System, from grant received to the most important person in organizing the program and their three-fold task. Contains some interesting program ideas, including seniors being invited to the Senior Prom.

Rubin, Rhea Joyce. 1983. Intergenerational programming: A how-to-do manual for librarians. New York: Neal-Schuman Publishers, Inc.

This book is a "must read" for any librarian planning Intergenerational Programming. It contains theoretical as well as hands-on "nuts and bolts" of Intergenerational Programming.

_____. 1999. ALA Office for Literacy and Outreach Services - Library outreach to underserved populations: Benefits of intergenerational programs. Available through http://www.ala.org/Content/NavigationMenu/Our_Association/Offices/.... Accessed 7 April 03.

Lists benefits of intergenerational programming for children, older adults, the library and

"for the greater community," in outline form, from the author of Intergenerational Programming: A How-to-Do Manual for Librarians.

_____. 1999. ALA Office for Literacy and Outreach Services - Library outreach to underserved populations: Services to the elderly, resource organizations. Available through http://www.ala.org/Content/NavigationMenu/Our_Association/Offices/... Accessed 7 April 03.

Lists resource organizations and agencies for services for the elderly in outline form, from the author of Intergenerational Programming: A How-to-Do Manual for Librarians.

_____. 1999. ALA Office for Literacy and Outreach Services - Library outreach to underserved populations: Services to the elderly, electronic resources. Available through http://www.ala.org/Content/NavigationMenu/Our_Association/Offices/... Accessed 7 April 03.

Lists electronic resources for intergenerational programs and services to the elderly, from the author of Intergenerational Programming: A How-to-Do Manual for Librarians.

Rubin, Rhea Joyce and Marie Pyko. 1999. ALA Office for Literacy and Outreach Services - Intergenerational library programs: An introductory bibliography. Available through <file://C:\DOCUME~1\ANNES\LOCALS~1\Temp\triPMEMH.htm> Accessed 3 February 03.

A bibliography on Intergenerational Programming. One of the authors, Rhea Joyce Rubin, is the author of Intergenerational Programming: A How-to-Do Manual for Librarians, a "must read" for anyone considering intergenerational programming.

U.S.D.A. Into the 21st century: Intergenerational programming. Available through <http://www.reeusda.gov/4h/ip/intergenerational.htm>. Accessed 22 March 03.

Defines Intergenerational Programming and discusses its importance, benefits, challenges and opportunities, and programs in the following areas: aging awareness; care giving; employment; family economics, gardening and leisure activities; health, nutrition, physical activity and wellness; professional preparation and volunteer development; and, youth development. It also lists new material, networks, new initiatives and agencies.

Last modified: 04/08/03